V. Reports
A. Director’s Report
November 17, 2020

The library will go to porch pickup starting Wednesday, November 18.

COVID -19 Maryville Community Library
Unfortunately, the number of COVID-19 cases continues to rise. The protocols developed when the Maryville Community Library reopened on July 6 are still in place. Masks are required for both staff and patrons. There is limited occupancy to make social distancing possible in our small building. Patrons are asked to limit their visits to 30 minutes. Curbside service is available to patrons who cannot wear masks or do not feel comfortable entering the building.
The library staff continues to wear masks, social distance, and clean frequently. Items are cleaned before being returned to the shelves. We continue to make every effort to provide a safe environment for our patrons and staff. All in-person programs and events are cancelled until further notice. Library staff cleans before the library opens each morning.

The library staff has been working with this stressful situation for a while, and they are to be commended for the extra effort and willingness to adapt to continually changing circumstances.

When the Illinois Heartland Library System reopened, all the settings for delayed holds and a lot of other operations went to some unknown default, which has caused a lot of problems. We often find yet another function that didn't restart smoothly.

In September, the Illinois Heartland library System (IHLS) increased the item quarantine period to seven days. Many libraries reported limited space and personnel made this was very difficult for them. IHLS then took over the quarantine duties on all items sent by courier. In November, IHLS reduced the quarantine period to 5 days, and continues to quarantine items at the delivery hubs.

Overdrive

We are waiting for IHLS to provide more information. In September, Nick took a webinar to get general information on the RB Media/Overdrive transition. Overdrive purchased RB Media, more news to come.

In response to our inquiry on October 15, IHLS sent an email: “No new updates as of now. We’re still talking to our Overdrive rep about next steps and waiting on some information in writing. More to come soon (I hope).”

November 6 email from IHLS RE: RBDigital & Overdrive – “Our Overdrive rep confirmed that we will have access to all of our RBDigital content (eAudiobooks and eMagazines) via the RBdigital platform until the end of our contract period or June 30, 2021. This will give us some time to decide how to proceed and we will likely have another user’s group meeting in the New Year. Stay tuned for more information and have an excellent weekend!”

Hoopla

Libraries responding to inquiries about Hoopla said it was very popular, but could quickly become very expensive. In addition, there was an issue with the authentication process that allowed patrons from other libraries to access Hoopla accounts. When this issue had been resolved, I spoke to a Hoopla contact at length about how to manage expenses.

We can control amount spent by limiting patrons use per month. We can then adjust price point so patrons see only items (i.e. under $3). We can then implement a monthly budget cap. We can cut back on methods of promotion. Strongly recommend we start small and leave room in our budget for growth in the second year.
Maryville Community Library has signed a contract, completed a digital questionnaire, and received staff training on how to generate reports to track expenses. We are waiting for the Hoopla ILS Authentication Integration to be completed. This sets up, among other things, the system to authenticate our patrons so only Maryville patrons can access our Hoopla account. This requires IHLS involvement. Andrew sent me a notice on November 9 to let me know he was still waiting for a response from IHLS. I submitted a Help Desk request, and they indicated someone would contact Andrew to enable us to move forward and offer Hoopla to our patrons.

Fine Free

All libraries that responded to inquiries about going fine free were very positive. They advertise fine free status on assorted media; still send overdue notices; do not allow any additional checkouts until overdue items are renewed or returned. All still require patrons to pay for lost/damaged items.

Fines are waived until further notice as it will take some time for the entire delivery process to be fully operational and completely catch up with the backlog. Overdue notices are sent out, and most items are being returned in a timely manner. The patrons who do not return items are billed for lost or damaged items.

We will continue to monitor guidelines and recommendations from the Illinois Heartland Library System, the Illinois State Library, the Restore Illinois Plan, and the CDC.

The library continues to update its Webpage and Facebook page. We have been promoting several “take and make” or stress-reliever projects for our patrons. These have been well received.
